

Hello! I am the fourth grade teacher at Egremont School. Before teaching at Egremont, I received a Bachelor's degree in Liberal Studies with a concentration in Mathematics and a Multiple Subject Teaching Credential from California State University Northridge. Currently, I am pursuing a Master's degree in Educational Psychology at Cal State Northridge. My love for the educational field will expand through this intensive, yet rewarding, program, and I am eager to implement resourceful and innovative teaching methods I will grasp through this coursework.

Alongside teaching Fourth grade, I am the Student Council Coordinator and have organized numerous enjoyable fundraising opportunities for Egremont as well as arranged many community outreach events where students and parents give back to our community.

While at Egremont, I have taught Second grade and Preschool. I have greatly enjoyed gaining experience in teaching various grade levels. I believe all students are capable of reaching their full potential through perseverance, determination, and support from family and teachers. I encourage my students to be creative and incorporate various teaching techniques to engage my students. I consistently integrate technology in lessons and include technology in student work as well. Growing up in the San Fernando Valley, I've encountered a few teachers that imprinted on me a love of learning, and I want to give that same motivation and encouragement to my students on a daily basis.

I am a Disney fanatic, enjoy reading, seeing Broadway productions, and traveling. I look forward to many more lasting memories and the incredible experience of teaching at Egremont!

Chrissandra
Lobato